PUBLIC OUTCRY ON STREET VICE

Report by Adam Burling

PROSTITUTES are continuing to plague the streets of Walsall and leaving residents scared to go outside at night – sparking a crunch meeting with police.

Families say the problem in Pleck is worse than ever despite a crackdown being launched last year. Kerb crawlers are approaching prostitutes outside people's houses, while needles and used condoms are being discarded in the gutter. Now the neighbourhood watch group is meeting police and councillors on September 4 to tackle the issue.

Operation Scarlet was launched last year, with sex workers and kerb crawlers being hauled before the courts.

And though police insist the crackdown is continuing, residents say the problem is getting worse. And some are even considering moving out of the area.

Darlaston Road and Gower Street are said to be particular hotspots.

Retired police officer and Pleck Neighbourhood Watch chairman David Baker, aged 66, said: "I live in Gower Street and these women are operating under our noses, and enough is enough.

"The property value round here is dropping and we have had all we can take. I think the number of women and punters has trebled in the last couple of months.

Cautions

"Women are frightened of being accosted as they walk down the street. It's unacceptable."

He has called a meeting on September 4 at James Bridge Copper Social Club in Reservoir Place at 7.30pm and expects local police officers to attend.

Police say powers under Operation Scarlet include issuing street cautions and in some cases if they repeatedly re-offend, applying to the courts for a criminal anti-social behaviour order (CRASBO) which bans them from entering a specific area of Walsall.

Sergeant Mo Shaid, from Pleck neighbourhood policing team, said: "People understandably do not want this type of behaviour on their doorstep.

"Historically we are aware of street workers operating in the area and along with the Walsall South Area Partnership a joint operation to look at the problem of street sex workers and kerb crawlers has been put in place."

New boss warns of need for more cuts

CUTS at Walsall Council will be even worse than feared with services axed and fees up.

New council leader Sean Coughlan claims the previous administration didn't address the authority's dire finances and says services will be slashed and charges increased as the council faces £104m of savings over five years.

The council has to save £21m in the current financial year alone. But the new leader says even more will have to be cut from the budget in the coming years.

The Labour group took control of the council earlier this month from the Conservative and Liberal Democrat coalition.

Councillor Coughlan said: "This could be the toughest year yet of savings. Some services will remain, some will be run differently and some will have to cease. The financial position is worse than the previous administration was letting on and everything we were saying over the last year was true. We thought the council was wrong to be making short term budget plans and we were right."

The new cabinet has launched a survey for residents to have their say on what cuts should be made.

The survey is available at www.walsall.gov.uk/budgethaveyoursay

Unit is given closure date

THE consultant-led maternity unit at Stafford Hospital is due to close in January, staff have been told – even though a Government review into its future has not yet started.

Under the changes there would only be a midwife-led facility dealing with low-risk births.Other women will have to travel to hospitals including Walsall Manor.

Staff have been told the maternity unit has been earmarked for closure.

B&M store scheme to boost jobs

AROUND 65 jobs could be created by a national retailer that wants to take over a former DIY outlet in Walsall, under new plans.

B&M wants to take on the former Focus DIY outlet in Coppice Lane, Aldridge, and has lodged plans with Walsall Council.

It comes after it was announced last week that the retailer was the first big brand to sign up to the £12 million St Matthews Quarter development in Walsall town centre, which is expected to create around 200 new jobs.

Permission is being sought to vary a condition about what can be sold at the store in order for B&M to move in.

According to the plans, the scheme will improve the choice of shopping facilities, encourage competition and create employment.

A report, lodged with the plans reads: "Up to 65 new employment opportunities would be created.

"This is a consideration which weighs in its favour.

"It will provide a further boost to the local economy and given the nature of the scheme the majority of the jobs will be available to local people."

Esther is 'A' starter for 10

Young academic Esther Okade aged 10, who has passed her maths A-Level

SHE stunned her family and friends by passing her maths GCSE at the age of seven and now Esther Okade has done it again.

The 10-year-old has passed an A-level, scooping a B in the tough subject. Now she hopes to take a university degree at the age of 12. In 2010 Walsall youngster Esther got a C grade in her GCSE maths exam and had plans to sit her A-level the following year.

However, those plans were shelved after Esther decided to resit the exam to get a better grade. Her proud mother Omonefe Okade said: "When she was seven, after the first GCSE she did, she said she didn't like the C. 'That is yucky'. She wanted to do it again the next year. 'A is better' she said, so she did it again the next year and got an A."

Esther sat the first two exams of her A-level maths at Ounsdale High School, Wombourne, and received a B. Despite completing all six A-level modules and getting a B, Mrs Okade said Esther was not particularly happy with her grade: "Everyone else was like 'wow' and she was like 'oh – a B'."

Aspray in talks over main site expansion

A TOP transport firm in Willenhall is set to expand and create more jobs.

Aspray24 wants to increase the size of its 17-acre head office in Noose Lane.

The firm which employs more than 700 people across the UK and has over 550 trucks want to take over neighbouring land.

Discussions have been taking place with Hammond Case and Pallet over the site, which would see them move to improved premises elsewhere.

It comes after Aspray24 have already taken over the former George Carter site in Park Road to create a warehouse. Bosses say they are keen to continue to grow, safeguard and bring new jobs.

An application has been lodged with Walsall Council for planning permission to use the Hammond's site, if acquired, to create more lorry space.

Stuart Laight, managing director at Aspray24, said securing permission would enable the company to move fast if the land became available. "We are very busy at the moment so it is sensible to plan for growth," he said.

The application states the company has grown since being on site in the 1990s from 4.7 acres. It has seen an extra 85 workers recruited in 2012 and another 115 last year.

On course to start running

A ONE-DAY course has been organised designed to help people spread the word on the positive effects of running.

The course, which is supported by Run England, will be held at the Willenhall E-Act Academy on September 14.

The course is free and all who attend.

Alert as drugs suspect is still at large

Robert Knight

A SUSPECTED drug smuggler from Walsall, and who is believed to be hiding in Spain, remains at large.

A message has now been issued from police urging holidaymakers to keep a lookout.

Robert Knight, aged 53, is thought to be part of a gang who tried to import cocaine through Heathrow Airport in 2008.

He has been on the most wanted list of suspected criminals from the West Midlands in recent years and his last known address was in the Brownhills area of Walsall.

However he is also believed to have links to Lichfield and Birmingham as well as Belgium, Gibraltar, Thailand and South Africa.

Hank Cole, Head of International Operations for the National Crime Agency, said: "The NCA and its partners have the capability to pursue fugitives relentlessly. Spain is not a safe haven.

"The exceptional level of collaboration and intelligence sharing with the Spanish authorities has been vital to many of these arrests.

"The most important thing though is the power of this campaign to harness the eyes and ears of the public, both here and

Motorway roadworks scheme announced

MOTORISTS have been warned of disruption on the M6 through the Black Country and Staffordshire as a series of overnight closures are under way.

From Tuesday drivers were forced to find alternative routes after a fresh round of roadworks start as part of a £120 million scheme. The smart motorways projects aims to extend the use of the hard shoulder as an extra lane.

A series of overnight closures have been announced for 15 consecutive nights on the M6 southbound between junctions 10a for Wolverhampton and the M54 and junction 13 for Stafford.

And the agency advised more road closures are on the way in October. Highways Agency bosses said the closures to parts of the motorway and the slip roads was to enable work on updating overhead gantries.

They claimed the scheme had been designed to minimise disruption and say the overall projects aims to reduce congestion and provide 'more reliable journey times' for motorists.

Highways Agency project manager David Cooke said work on the scheme was already 'progressing well'.

"We have carried out much of the necessary work within the hard shoulder and verges of the motorway," he said.

"We are now ready to install equipment on overhead gantries and to do this safely and quickly we need to close carriageways overnight."

Bosses say works are scheduled to take place between 10pm and 6am from Tuesdays to Thursdays, and on Fridays between 10pm and 8am.

At the weekend the closures will be in place on Saturdays from 10pm to 10am and on Sundays from 10pm to 5.30am. During October there will be a further 12 full closures.

Visit www.highways.gov.uk/roads/road-projects for full details on the scheme.

Amber funds joy over £43k

On the way to £65,000 Amber Porterfield, aged six, with her mother Sue Kemp

MORE than £43,000 has been raised in just five months as a community rallies behind an appeal to help a five-year-old undergo a life-changing operation.

Amber Porterfield, of Pelsall, has the condition spastic diplegic cerebral palsy and had uses a walking frame and a wheelchair.

With the help of Pelsall Village School where she attends, Amber's family launched an appeal to raise £60,000 for her to be treated at Cerebral Palsy Centre at the St Louis Children's Hospital, in Missouri, in July next year. If successful the surgery will help her to walk unaided. Events have been held across the Walsall area to keep the money pouring in.

Her mother Sue said: "We have been so surprised that people have been so generous. When we came up with the target of £65,000 we thought it would take at least 12 months.

"The fact we have got so far in such a short space of time is amazing and we are so grateful to everyone for their help."

Extra bays brought in to boost parking

EXTRA parking spaces have been created at a school to help ease congestion in surrounding streets as part of a £11,000 project.

Councillors worked with staff at Butts Primary, in Walsall, to attract grants from a housing service and an area partnership towards the scheme. The money was spent on creating spaces on land next to the school and installing a safety fence at the site at the corner of Butts Road and Teddesley Street.

Around £6,500, was provided by the school, £4,500 by the borough's area partnership and £1,000 from Walsall Housing Group (WHG) which has its headquarters near the primary school. St Matthew's ward representative Councillor Mohammed Arif said councillors had attended meetings with residents in the Butts area about parking concerns.

"The ward councillors have been working with WHG, the school and the residents. There have been issues with parking in the area. It's near the town centre and the roads are narrow. The council has already put some traffic management in place in recent years."

Woman found safe and well

A WOMAN who vanished from her home has returned safe and well, officers have confirmed.

Walsall Police said Ms Squire, of Eldon Street, Chuckery, had returned home following the appeal on August 23.

West Midlands Police spokesman Billy Corrigan said: "She returned home. We checked everything and she's fine."

Error sees kidney op incorrectly carried out

A HOSPITAL blunder saw doctors remove a patient's kidney by mistake, an investigation has revealed.

The patient at Walsall Manor Hospital should have received chemotherapy for ovarian cancer.

However a misdiagnosis led to her having a kidney removed as doctors incorrectly believed she had kidney cancer. She then suffered with bowel infections and damage for the final 20 months of her life. Chiefs at Walsall Healthcare NHS Trust have paid out £4,000 to the patient's family and apologised for care given.

The woman, referred to as 'Mrs P', had suffered from ovarian cancer four years prior to the blunder.

She returned for blood tests, the results of which doctors thought were suggestive of kidney cancer, and doctors duly operated to remove a kidney. After the operation, tests showed that the cancer was actually recurrent ovarian cancer.

The Parliamentary and Health Service Ombudsman report criticised the trust for its care. Mr Amir Khan, medical director at Walsall Healthcare NHS Trust said: "Following this case there was a full investigation and an action plan was submitted to the ombudsman."

999 charge for accused

A MAN has been charged with stealing an ambulance and assaulting paramedics who were trying to help him. Simon Lewis was arrested after police received a report that a man was acting violently towards an ambulance crew who had been called out to a flat in Bloxwich High Street.

The unemployed 37-year-old is alleged to have assaulted two ambulance staff before driving off in the emergency vehicle.

He has been bailed to appear before Walsall and Aldridge Magistrates Court on September 9.

Jail sentence on film pirate is welcomed

Illegal copy – Philip Danks

FILM industry and copyright chiefs have welcomed the jail sentence handed to a man who cost Universal Pictures an estimated £2.3 million by being the first person in the world to illegally copy the blockbuster Fast & Furious 6.

Philip Danks, aged 25, was given a two-year and nine-month jail sentence at Wolverhampton Crown Court after he secretly took a video of the movie at the Showcase Cinema in Walsall on May 17 last year – the day it was exclusively released in the UK. The Federation Against Copyright Theft helped police track town Danks.

FACT director general Kieron Sharp, said: "Thousands of people are employed making some of the world's most famous and popular films. Their livelihoods are at risk if a film is unable to create the profits needed to fund future films.

"This is an important case and an important sentence. Danks was responsible for recording, uploading and distributing the film and was unconcerned at the time about the consequences of his actions, perhaps believing the internet gave him anonymity. We at FACT have shown that we will find and identify people committing criminal offences and ensure that they are properly dealt with through the courts".

Danks, of Livingstone Road, Bloxwich, uploaded the film onto the internet via his personal website Bit Buddy the following day after converting the pirated camcorder version into a digital copy. That copy – which carried his telltale 'tag' Thecod3r – was then downloaded free of charge by around 779,000 people in the next four weeks.

Chris Marcich, from the Motion Picture Association of America, said: "Online copyright infringement represents a significant threat to the continued success of the UK's creative industries."

Five days after the recording was made Dudley-born Danks was arrested. Wolverhampton Crown Court heard that despite his arrest Danks continued to copy, sell and distribute illegal copies of films.The 25-year-old admitted three charges of distributing pirate copies of films.

Borough students jump for joy at GCSEs success

Report by Craig Hughes

STUDENTS across Walsall have been celebrating their GCSE results as it emerged the number of C grades or higher awarded nationally has risen for the first time in three years.

Many schools in the area have reported improved results although headteachers across the country have also reported large swings in English and Maths results said to be down to recent educational reforms.

There has been a sharp drop in English grades across the country, with 61.7 per cent of entries scoring A*-C, down 1.9 percentage points from last summer. This is believed to be the biggest fall in the qualification's history.

Maths saw an opposite result, with 62.4 per cent of entries gaining an A*-C grade, up 4.8 percentage points on 2013.

It comes after changes which have seen speaking and listening removed from final English grades, less course work and a switch by some students to take International GCSEs (IGCSE) in some subjects. Another reform has seen only a teenager's first attempt at an exam count in school league tables.

Scored

There were record results for some schools across Walsall when pupils picked up their eagerly-awaited grades.

At Queen Mary's Grammar School more than 72 per cent of pupils gained all results at A* or A – a new record. Nine pupils scored at least 10A* grades. "Our pupils are bright and we expect them to do well," said headteacher, Tim Swain. "They knew they had a mountain to climb, but everyone has pulled together to help them rise to the challenge. It is great to see young men enjoying learning and achieving nationally outstanding success."

St Thomas More Catholic in Willenhall were also celebrating record results in the key subjects of English and maths.

The benchmark figure of 57 per cent of students achieving five A* to C grades including English and maths was the same as last year. But English results bucked the national trend with 74 per cent at A* to C up from 70 per cent last year and maths at 66 up from 63.

Sam Parkes, Mya Athwall, Chris Jones, Nicola Jones, Alexander Pierce

Jodie Icke, Chris Lovett, Jasdeep Dhillon, Charlie and Ellie Taylor

Headteacher Peter Mayland said: "It has been a challenging 12 months with so many last minute changes to examinations, including the changing of the rules for English GCSE."

High achiever Samantha Millington, aged 16, who got A*s in maths, science and design technology said: "I had to do a lot of a revision and put in a lot of hard work. I'm really happy about my results. I'm going to be studying art, maths, physics and graphics with 3D materials at A-Level. My dream is to go on to university and eventually become an architect."

Results at Aldridge School saw record numbers in the top A* and A grades this year – with 12 students getting ten or more. It had its best ever results in science with 63 per cent of students achieving an A* or A grade. Overall more than 70 per cent achieved A* to C. Headteacher David Mountney said: "The GCSE results show great success in the top grades especially in science."

Brownhills School saw the number of pupils with A* or A increase. Among the top performers were 16 year-old cousins' Lauren and Adam Powell along with Bethany Cross. Lauren got three A* grades, seven A's, a B and distinction in ICT. Adam got an A* three B's and two C's among his grades with Bethany getting four A's, five B's and a C and distinctions in ICT and PE. Headteacher Helen Keenan said: "Our A*s and As went up which is brilliant. But we were disappointed with the Government changing all the rules half way through the school year." At Hydesville Tower in Walsall more than 60 per cent of the grades achieved by pupils was A*, A or B. Overall, 91 per cent achieved five or more A* to C grades. Headteacher Andrew McGinnes said: "I am pleased so many have achieved beyond expectations as a result of our small classes." Shire Oak Academy in Walsall Wood saw a total of 69 per cent of teenagers got the five or more grades including English and maths. Prinicipal Gary Crowther said: "Students have maintained their pleasing levels of performance and, as always, we are proud of their achievements."

At Joseph Leckie Academy in Delves the number of pupils who got five A* to C was 94.3 per cent. And Staff at Grace Academy Darlaston were celebrating an increase with 40 per cent of students getting A* to C grades at GCSE.

THE BEST OF PETER RHODES

MORE sightings of unusual names of legal firms. In Sligo, Ireland, a reader discovered Argue & Phibbs.

THERE must be an election coming. Why else would the Government promise a new law to jail those who use non-violent "controlling behaviour" in relationships? It is a promise rich in good intentions and fine sound bites but almost impossible to turn into solid prosecutions. For starters, what about those cultures which regard a wife as the property of her husband? If you can't control your own property, what is British justice coming to? (And if you disagree with that you're insulting my culture).

FIVE miles out to sea in a tiny dinghy, a sailor was rescued by a lifeboat from Dorset a few days ago. He had no lifejacket and no lights and was equipped with nothing more than a bag of food, a US passport and a street map of Southampton. It turns out he was a Bulgarian but surely he has shown all the fearless (not to say brainless) maritime qualities required of any true Brit. I suggest we grant him immediate UK citizenship and full membership of the organisation which provides so much summertime employment for the lifeboat crews, the Birmingham Navy.

DAVID Cameron says every Government policy should pass a "family-friendly" test. So he's abolishing inheritance tax, then? Thought not.

SANDRA Howard, the 74-year-old model and wife of former Tory leader Michael, writes a joyous column about the photograph taken of Lauren Bacall when she was 85 trilling: "Every line on her proud, defiant face is a lesson in how to embrace growing old." No it isn't. Every line is a reminder how unkind old age can be to once-beautiful women. If Bacall or any other former beauty could be magically given the face she had at 35, I bet they'd go for it like a shot. Women celebrating wrinkles is like blokes celebrating an enlarged prostate.

NICHOLAS Parsons declares that he's fed up with scruffy open-necked shirts and says it's time to bring back the cravat. I do hope not. The only person you should trust less than a man wearing a bowtie is a man wearing a cravat.

THE mayor of Rome, Ignazio Marino, has accused our Foreign Office of exaggerating the danger of pickpockets in his city. He may have a point. In my limited experience, the official advice, coupled with dire warnings from tour guides, makes you so paranoid about pickpockets in Rome that you entirely overlook the individuals who will rob you blind, time and again. They are called head waiters.

MY eye was caught by a big, glossy feature on kiddy-carrying bikes. All have some sort of container for small children on the front of the bicycle, which strikes me as the most dangerous end. To some folk, these machines speak of economy and family togetherness. I keep thinking of human shields.

BEING a dab hand with computers and their little ways, I offered to help a friend of a certain age make her online claim for her state pension. Bear in mind, this application process is intended to be tackled by over-60s. First you have to choose a password. Then you wait two days for an activation code and security number. Then you have to input all those numbers and the code and complete a form which takes an average of 20 minutes. If you make one single mistake you have to ring the helpline the next day and try to put it right. Or you can avoid the internet altogether and do it all by phone, which I thoroughly recommend unless you want to drive yourself bonkers.

Toll operators help out charities

THE operators of the M6 Toll are donating £50,000 to charity. Acorns Children's Hospice, Guide Dogs (Sandwell and Walsall) and Troop Aid, Solihull have all been handed cheques for £10,000 from a single day's net toll revenue.

A further £20,000 will be allocated to support community projects over the next 12 months.

Midland Expressway Ltd held a Drive for Charity fundraising event and fun day at the motorway service area, operated by Roadchef, between junctions T6 and T7 at Norton Canes.

Customers could visit stalls and displays about the work of the three charities and there were goodies and balloons for children.

Each of the charities had collection buckets and customers donated a further £500 on the day. The three charities have been chosen by MEL's social committee.

Sarah Knox, Sandwell and Walsall community fundraiser for Guide Dogs said: "The £10,000 from MEL will enable us to provide mobility services for more blind and partially sighted people.

"As a thank you, MEL will have the opportunity to name one of our very special puppies and follow their training journey through our 'Name a Puppy' scheme."

Charlotte Anson, Acorns' new business development officer, said: "We rely on fundraising and donations to keep our services running so this kind of support is vital."

Decision due on plan for hundreds of homes

A DECISION on whether a multi-million pound housing scheme to build hundreds of homes will get the final go-ahead is expected to be made in the next two months, housing chiefs have announced.

Walsall Housing Group, in partnership with Walsall Council, put forward plans to build around 400 new homes.

By Lisa O'Brien

They are due to be built in the Goscote area, Blakenall, and the scheme was resubmitted last year after amending their initial proposals following more than 800 objections.

Bosses at Walsall Housing Group said they were now expecting a decision in the next two months.

Blakenall Councillor Pete Smith said it will bring forward promised regeneration to a site that has been derelict for many years. Initial plans put forward involved building around 700 homes in the area but the revised proposals avoid building on the green belt, known as the Lea, following protest.

The sites earmarked for redevelopment are around Shakespeare Crescent, Keats Road and Well Lane.

There would be a mixture of houses and apartments and half of them would be affordable homes. They would be a mixture of two, three and four-bedroom properties.

The housing association has been given a funding boost towards the regeneration of Walsall after getting more than £8m investment as part of the Government's Black Country Growth Deal, through the Local Enterprise Partnership.

Funding has also come from the Homes and Communities Agency.

Mark Tranter, head of development at Walsall Housing Group, said: "With the news of the Homes and Communities and LEP funding, this month has been a major milestone in the project.

"We expect to hear in the next two months the outcome of the planning process on our submitted detailed plans and will keep residents informed of that decision."

Demolition of around 280 properties on the old Goscote estate started in 2007, although a defiant householder refused to budge until a suitable compensation package was agreed and remained until 2011.

Funds handed over to charity

Guide Dogs fundraiser, Sarah Knox, front, with staff and guide dog owner Paul Nicholls

FUNDRAISERS have helped collect thousands of pounds in aid of a good cause. A cheque for more than £5,000 has been presented to Guide Dogs UK. The money was raised by staff and shoppers at Sainsbury's in Reedswood Way, Walsall.

The store has been raising much-needed funds for the charity over the past 12 months. Sarah Knox, a community fundraiser for Guide Dogs UK, said: "We are grateful to all the staff and customers of Sainsbury's in Walsall for their enthusiastic support and this much-appreciated cheque." Staff at the store have been told they can now name a guide dog puppy. Once the puppy is born they will receive a birth certificate and photograph and the pup will visit the store.

The cheque for £5,336 was handed over to representatives from the charity recently.

Guide Dogs UK is a world-leader in the breeding and training of guide dogs. There are currently around 4,600 working guide dogs in the UK.

Drug user stamped on woman in attack

A TERRIFIED woman was forced to barricade herself in a room at her own home after being viciously attacked by her boyfriend who was high on cocaine, a court heard.

Lee Russon punched his partner in the face and repeatedly stamped on her, Wolverhampton Crown Court was told.

Mr Mark Rees, prosecuting, said: "She curled up into a ball to protect herself but he continued to stamp on her before walking off. This gave her the chance to move the settee across the doorand phone the police."

Russon, aged 30, was arrested at the Willenhall address of the victim – with whom he had been living for five years – when officers arrived soon after being alerted at 3.50am on July 26. Russon had broken a wrist of the woman by violently pushing her to the floor after returning to their home drunk two months earlier, it was said.

Mr Michael Trevelyan defending, said: "These eventswere the result of his drug and alcohol abuse."

Russon, previously of Cumberland Road, admitted assault and causing grievous bodily harm and was jailed for 12 months by Recorder Geoffrey Kelly.

The scheme is would create 20 full-time positions, and some part-time posts.

The application will be considered by the planning committee or officers under delegated powers in the coming months.

Talented teachers sought by chiefs

TALENTED teachers with a background in construction and engineering are being encouraged to attend a recruitment evening at Walsall College.

A staff recruitment evening will be held on September 3 for skilled tradesmen and women at the Green Lane campus from 5-7pm. Hourly-paid lecturers are being recruited at the college, which currently employs around 650 staff across its two main campuses.

The evening will give people the opportunity to talk to existing lecturers and find out more about the positions available.

Neil Sambrook, head of curriculum cluster for construction, engineering and science, said: "This is a fantastic opportunity for people to be involved in the ongoing success of Walsall College. We are looking for the next generation of teachers who have a genuine desire to pass on their skills and experiences learned in industry."

In March last year the college became the first further education establishment in the country to be graded outstanding. For details call 01922 657047 or email humanresources@walsallcollege.ac.uk

People can view the online petition through the www.change.org/en-GB/petitions/dr-amrik-gill page.

Start date set for work on Manor west wing

WORK on a long-awaited new multi-million pound critical care unit at Walsall Manor Hospital will begin in December, health chiefs have confirmed.

Construction of the planned West Wing unit will take 70 weeks to complete meaning it should be finished in spring 2016.

The £8.3 million facility will have 18 beds and is combining the high dependency and intensive therapy departments.

It was agreed to make it bigger than first expected by health chiefs earlier this year to cope with increasing patient numbers from Staffordshire.

This was at a cost of more than £2m extra.

Health bosses have said the new unit will be an asset to the hospital and the patients at Walsall Manor.

Colin Plant, divisional director for estates and facilities at Walsall Healthcare NHS Trust said: "Planned works on our Integrated Critical Care Unit are due to start in December this year and will continue for 70 weeks with our new unit set to open in spring 2016.

"This development is an exciting one for the trust and will mean that our High Dependency Unit and our Intensive Care Unit are integrated, so that patients who are critically ill or who are more highly dependent will be treated in the same place, at the same time, enabling a smooth step up or down transition where necessary.

"The unit will be an asset to the trust and will mean that we can go even further in ensuring we provide patients with the best possible care." Walsall Manor currently has capacity for 13 beds within the two existing units.

The initial intention of the new facility, which has received the go-ahead from the Trust Development Authority, is to run at 16 beds. But it is anticipated there will be more patients using the hospital following the downgrading of Stafford Hospital, meaning the need to create extra capacity for the long-term.

Jail for jilted lover who set fire to woman's home

A JILTED lover who set fire to his girlfriend's house after she ended their relationship and asked him to move out has been jailed for 32 months.

Wolverhampton Crown Court was told that Nicholas Wilcox set fire to a bedroom at Emma Beck's house in Beeches Road, Leamore, Walsall, while she was out at a christening.

The court heard that the ordeal had left Miss Beck afraid to return to her home, and she also sought the help of her GP. Her three children, who were not at the house when Wilcox started the fire, had also been left traumatised. Wilcox, aged 37, of Parker Street, Bloxwich, admitted arson being reckless as to whether life was endangered.

Mr David Lees, prosecuting, said Wilcox had been in a short relationship with Miss Beck and was living at her house. On May 4 this year she told Wilcox she wanted to end the relationship, and wanted him to move out that day.

He added that Wilcox consumed a large amount of alcohol and sent her a number of text messages which were 'a little emotional'. Mr Lees said a neighbour had noticed Wilcox entering the property at around 2pm, and shortly after noticed smoke coming out of a bedroom window. Wilcox, who was clearly in a drunken state, let the neighbour in.

Wilcox initially claimed he had started the fire by accident after lighting a candle, but a firefighter's report said the mattress had been set alight and aided with an accelerant. He added that Wilcox was subject to an eight-week suspended sentence for a drink-related offence at the time of the fire.

Mr Malcolm Fowler, defending, said his client had been in custody since the time of the offence.

Cannabis grower had £11k debts

A CASH-strapped mother-of-two's bid to get out of debt by growing cannabis has ended in the dock at Wolverhampton Crown Court.

Police found 12 plants being cultivated under two tents and a hydroponic system when they called at the home of 28-year-old Aimee Benton on an unrelated matter on June 15, a judge heard yesterday. The drug farm could have produced a £8,000 crop, said Mr Paul Spratt, prosecuting.

Benton from Margram Crescent, Bloxwich, told police that she was £11,000 in debt and had been told by an unidentified man how to harvest the cannabis when the plants reached maturity, continued the prosecutor.

Mr Ekwall Tiwana, defending, explained: "She had borrowed money from a loan shark with the debt quickly doubling. It has now quadrupled and she owes a considerable amount of money." Benton admitted producing cannabis and was given a four-month jail term suspended under supervision for 18 months by Judge Michael Challinor who said: "The operation was not large but relatively sophisticated."

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Brian Stanley feels that it's all about service. 'Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 5 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done.

We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole.'

Cloudy2Clear service Wolverhampton and the surrounding area and Brian is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated.'

IN MY VIEW

with Mark Andrews

YES, celebrity biopics seem to be all the rage at the moment. And ITV's tribute to the late Tommy Cooper was one of the most poignant and moving things on television this year. But the Cilla Black story? Really, really, isn't that just stretching things a little bit too far?

As far as I'm concerned, the Cilla Black story essentially boils down to this: made a noise like a strangled cat for a few years, then went on to spend the 1980s presenting two of the most dreadful, cringe-making programmes ever to appear on our television screens.

If that's what they call 'original, quality drama', then I must be Twiggy.

INCIDENTALLY, Cilla says she knows Sir Cliff Richard is innocent of an allegation of sex abuse, because she 'has known him for a million years.'

Well. I knew they were both knocking on a bit, but I have to say that came as a little bit of a surprise.

THE NHS, provider of free medical care from cradle to grave. Unless it's dentistry, it seems. During my last visit to an NHS dentist, I was told that I needed a crown. And that it would cost £290.

How much? When they said the NHS was 'free at the point of delivery', I though they meant free of charge. Not three-hundred quid.

TRYING to drum up support for the by-election for the West Midlands Police and Crime Commissioner last week, a leaflet came through the door bearing the words: "The criminals of the West Midlands will be hoping you stay at home on August 21."

Yes, it's a lovely sentiment, democracy, power to the people and all that. But cynical Black Country man that I am, I can't help but thinking that many of the criminals of the West Midlands were hoping that people would go out and vote on Thursday. So they could burgle their homes while they were out.

WHAT would you say is the biggest problem gripping Europe at the moment? The crisis in the Ukraine? Or what about the barbaric activities in Iraq and Syria?

Nah, the European Union has immediately grasped the number one threat facing us all. From September 1, there will be a ban on the manufacture or importation of all vacuum cleaners with motors more powerful than 1,600 watts.

Apparently, it is about saving the environment. Although I doubt it will do much for the environment of the houses which are now being forced to use puny vacuum cleaners.

Still, those Eurocrats, they know what they're talking about. Wouldn't want their maids getting ideas above their station, would they?

Clive next to Prince Harry, with fellow Invictus athletes

Clive on duty before the explosion

Cliv was the face of the 2012 Poppy Appeal

Helmand hero on his bike for Britain

MARK ANDREWS reports on a soldier who lost both his legs and has become one of Harry's heroes

CLIVE Smith was lying on the ground amid a thick cloud of dust after a roadside bomb had exploded in Afghanistan's Helmand Province.

"I tried to get up, and kept falling over again, and I thought 'this is a bit weird'," he recalls.

But he quickly discovered why he couldn't get up – the explosion had taken away both his legs.

"I didn't feel it at the time," says the soldier, who had just been promoted to the rank of Lance Corporal.

"I was looking around to see who was injured, it was another three or four minutes before I realised it was me."

That was in October 16, 2010. Now, almost four years on, the 28-year-old was welcomed by Prince Harry as one of the 130 British representatives at the launch of his inaugural Invictus Games, an international sporting event for wounded, injured and sick service personnel.

Clive Smith in training for his cycling event at the Invictus games

Training

Clive, from Rugeley Road, Hednesford, will represent Britain at cycling in the games at the Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park in London from September 10 to 14. In all, more than 400 competitors from 14 nations will take part .

Clive, who has been training three days a week after securing a place in the England cycling time trials squad, says it was a privilege to meet the Prince.

He says: "The games are Harry's baby and it was really nice to meet him and speak to him about my training.

"He asked each of the 130 squad members how they were getting on and joked with us all which was nice. My training is going really well and I am going out on the bike three to four times a week."

Clive, who was serving with 33 Engineer Regiment when he was injured in the Nahr-e Saraj district of Helmand, said the Help For Heroes and Royal British Legion charities played a huge role in helping him find rehabilitation through sport.

During April 2012 he spent a week involved in adaptive sports and adventure training at the Battle Back Centre, Lilleshall for the recovery of wounded service personnel.

"I tried a bit of everything, wheelchair basketball, rock climbing, bowling, but it was cycling where I really found my niche." The training for the Invictus Games is tough, but Clive is quietly confident he will be able to give his best when the games begin.

"The most I've done in one session is 70 miles so I think I will be fine when it comes to the games," he says.

"Being at the launch was fantastic and it was great to be back in the company of some of the guys who I met in rehab. I am really looking forward to it."

When Prince Harry launched the games he congratulated those who had made the British team saying, "These men and women have achieved so much already but being selected for this team is another significant milestone in their life beyond injury."

He said the games were not just for those taking part, but for the 'wider family' and added that the team would not just be competing for themselves but for their 'mates'.

Lance-Corporal Smith was leading his men on a routine foot patrol when he suffered his injuries.

He walked in front of the patrol, sweeping the ground with his Vallon detecting machine in a bid to locate roadside bombs.

It later emerged that the device had been cunningly made with a low metal content, reducing the chance of detection.

Disregarding their own safety, his comrades dashed to give him medical treatment, applying tourniquets to his damaged legs to stop the bleeding.

Battlefield

"They saved my life," he says. "If they hadn't done what they did, I wouldn't be here."

The soldier was evacuated from the battlefield, treated at the British field hospital at Camp Bastion, before being flown back to Birmingham's Queen Elizabeth Hospital, which has its own special military wing.

Five weeks later, Clive was beginning the gruelling recovery process which now enables him to walk on two artificial legs.

He was chosen as the face of the 2012 Poppy Appeal, and earlier this year Cannock Chase District Council named a road after him.

In November last year, the keen Wolves fan also achieved his lifelong dream of walking out onto the pitch at Molineux, before the League One game against Stevenage.

And, despite his life-changing injuries, Clive says he has no regrets about his chosen career in the forces.

"I have had 10 wonderful years, and I wouldn't have changed it at all," he said.

WEEK IN POLITICS

with Daniel Wainwright

IT was disheartening to see the war of words between Tory MP Chris Kelly and Labour councillor Pete Lowe over the Black Country flag.

Mr Kelly reckons organisers of the hugely-successful Black Country Festival should have sourced them locally, or at least in the UK, rather than from Taiwan. Councillor Lowe, standing as Parliamentary candidate in Stourbridge next year, makes the valid point that there was not a lot of time to get so many flags and that we happened to see them flown all over the world in the run-up to and after the festival.

But then he slightly spoils it by saying: "Why a millionaire Tory would want to try and pick fault with the best community-led festival in years is beyond me."

That's a bit of a cheap shot. An MP is entitled to his opinion whether he's wealthy or not. And it is nothing to do with which political party he's from either. Labour MPs such as Warley's John Spellar have championed producing things in Britain too.

I don't agree with Mr Kelly's point, although I can see where he's coming from. After all, when we're flying the flag for an area that's proud of making things, it's ironic that it carries a label saying it's made in Taiwan.

However, he is probably nit-picking unnecessarily when you consider just how good the festival was and what it's done for pride in where we're from and what we've achieved.

But one of the best things about it was how it was a real community effortbacked by councillors of all parties in all boroughs,This was an event all about celebrating our common ground. What a shame it's been used as a political football.

One thing I'd like to see the new police and crime commissioner for the West Midlands David Jamieson to do is lobby the Home Office for a change in the legislation on what happens when a 'vacancy' occurs.

I use the quote marks because that's a rather clinical and unfeeling way of describing the death of an incumbent. Bob Jones had only passed away a few hours before councillors were forced to discuss the process for a by-election owing to a rule within the Police Reform and Social Responsibility Act that required it be held within 35 days.

That left us in the situation of people going to the polls in August when a lot of people are away. Those who were around to vote weren't interested in doing so. A little more time to plan the election, spread the word, hold public meetings and explain what the role is even for might have made a difference.

As it stands the Government will be able to shrug off the poor turnout as being the time of year, rather than a sign that, two years on people still don't really know what the PCC role is all about.

No hope despite change at the top

WITH the change in the numbers of the political make-up of Walsall Council, Councillor Sean Coughlan has now become leader. But are matters going to change?

The Ofsted report to the director of children's services, is positively damning of the strategy of the council not being realised. The plans not being fit for purpose. Inconsistent weak leadership in the schools. With no clear plan to improve the leadership and governance for the schools.

Councillor Arif, former portfolio holder, talked about ensuring the schools will be better by 2016, just as though too many poor performing schools are something new. Despite John Prescott's reading the riot act to all the councillors back in 2000, with then many of Walsall's schools failing Ofsted's reports for previous decades.

It has to be blatantly clear to all that time and time again the problem has to be selection/election of the wrong people for the role of councillors.

Appointment of the wrong people selecting those to run many schools, leading to teaching staff unsuited, despite their certification or degrees, to work with children. Now the problem has become endemic, bedded deep in the culture.

Even should the suitable school teaching staff be found, realising those with the necessary talents are not standing around waiting for positions. I have to guess our present children will have to become parents themselves. Able enough to be of aid to their children before real change is seen.

Two years? I doubt it, more like thirty.

Action on schools is required

NEW ways of working are urgently needed to hold councillors, staff and schools to account for the consequences of their interventions or non-interventions and failure to deliver anything other than a service that has been described as 'ineffective'.

What happens when services go wrong? Work, projects undertaken by Walsall Council may not deliberately seek to do harm, nonetheless harm too often occurs to the reputation of local schools and Walsall's education.

Reading the latest Ofsted report into the School Improvement Service which uses phrases such as 'not fit for purpose' we can discern that there is a huge deficit in responsibility and delivery by too many councillors, staff and schools. Pupils and parents deserve better.

Pupils' lives are affected often with serious consequences.

Israel's attacks not unprovoked

RE: The Kytes' letter on Gaza recently, I agree and share their sadness over the deaths and injuries suffered by the children. However, they conveniently ignore the cause of this suffering. The people of Gaza voted in Hamas, almost 100 per cent, mainly on the promise that they would destroy Israel and put all the Jews to the sword.

Hamas, since taking power, have been firing rockets into Israel causing death and destruction, while the world leaders have chosen to ignore their actions. To stop these unprovoked attacks, the Israeli army set out to destroy their rockets, rocket launchers, etc, also the tunnels, which penetrate into Israel.

If Hamas used the billions of pounds in improving the quality of life in Gaza instead of buying weapons they would be applauded. However, there will never be peace as long as they continue with their promise to destroy Israel.

To describe Israel as barbaric, the Kytes should not ignore the barbaric deeds of the Islamic State in Iraq. There Sunni Muslims are beheading, crucifying, raping women and killing infants and children of the Christians, Yazidis and other ethnic minorities. I condemn The Islamic State for their barbaric actions but Muslim countries' leaders have proved their silence to be deafening.

Poignant evening to remember

IN Darlaston on August 4 outside Darlaston Town Hall we held a commemoration of the centenary of the outbreak of the First World War.

It was a very moving and memorable evening. I would like to say thanks to our community of Darlaston who turned out to support the evening; Jeffery Johnson who organised the evening and with his colleagues were the bugle players for the evening, the choirs of St Lawrence and All Saints churches and the Reverend Liz Jones who led the prayers.

Also the 240 Squadron ATC who were a credit to the squadron on parade and organised the sound effects and music, the police, the Town Hall staff, John Sutton of Darlaston History Society and the readers of the evening.

Justin's a B-el-ieber in Brandon

IT'S not every day global pop phenomenon Justin Bieber tells you he likes the sound of your voice but that is exactly what happened to Brandon Duffus.

The 16-year-old rapper of Dau End Lane in Rushall, Walsall, met the superstar at the BET Awards in Los Angeles. His father Mark Anthony is a record producer and has worked with artists including American singer Joyce Sims and UK singer Glen Goldsmith.

When he attended the BET Awards in Los Angeles he took Brandon along with him to rub shoulders with the stars. The Aldridge High School pupil said the pop star told him that he liked his style.

He said: "I have wanted to be a rapper since I was really young after seeing my father working in his studio.

"It was really great to attend the awards ceremony and I made a lot of contacts. Justin Bieber spoke to me and gave me some advice and told me to just be myself.

"He said he liked my style and he had listened to one of my tracks which he really enjoyed."

And he went on to add: "It's a huge compliment to be told that by someone who is so big in the industry and one day I would love to have his success."

Brandon is signed to his father's label, Digital Jukebox Records, and he is currently recording his first single which he hopes to release later this year. He said music has distracted him from his upcoming GCSE results:

Pop hopeful Brandon with Justin Bieber at the recent BET Awards

"The song is great but I am keeping it under wraps for now.

"I want to do A-Levels in business, ICT and media studies in September because I think those subjects will help me with my music career."

Last month Brandon performed at the Wireless Festival at Perry Park in Birmingham and in December he will represent Walsall in the Star Youth Talent dance competition against dance competitors around the region.

Care views to be collated

RESPONSES to a consultation surrounding the future of emergency care in Walsall will now be reviewed ahead of a decision being made in September.

Walsall Clinical Commissioning Group held a public consultation which ended last Thursday.

The current Walsall Walk-in Health Centre in Market Square is expected to close next April during town centre regeneration work.

The three options for people to consider as part of the consultation are moving to another site in the town centre, relocating to the north of Walsall or merging it with the existing Emergency and Urgent Care Walk-in Centre which is based at the Manor Hospital.

The consultation also asked for views on the long term plans for the future of the urgent and emergency care system over the next three to five years.

Bosses from the CCG said they needed to plan for the future so that they can build an urgent and emergency care system that was a true reflection of the needs of people using services in the borough.

Good clean pun as shops trading on clever names

JUST for the pun of it, shop owners are coming up with some of the cleverest names to see off competition from supermarkets.

And these businesses, dotted across the West Midlands are some of the best that we have found when it comes to playing with the English language.

Take, for example, Great Barr greengrocer Melon Cauli. The shop in Hamstead Road has been there for 12 years.

One of its staff, who did not want to give his name said: "People are always coming in and talking about it. It's been featured on the radio and on Graham Norton's TV show.

"Unfortunately it doesn't help deal with the likes of Tesco and Asda. That's just the way of the world." In some cases the names are second-hand.

Cafe Gluttons for Nourishment in Tettenhall picked its name after being inspired by a business with the same title. The business in Tettenhall Arcade opened three and a half years ago.

Beauty and the Beach, in The Straits

Melon Cauli, in Beacon Road, Pheasey

Chip-shape – Kent's Tuck Inn Fried Chicken, at the Arcade, Upper Gornal

Comment

Owner Sarah Hipkiss said: "I can't claim the credit for it. My sister in law used to work in London and there was a restaurant with the same name, but it had closed. People do comment on it, they have a bit of a laugh and it still gives us a giggle too."

One play on words once got the owner of a fast food restaurant into trouble.

Kent's Tuck In Fried Chicken has been on the same site in Kent Street, Upper Gornal, since 1999.

Six months after opening there was a demand from the American fast food giant Kentucky Fried Chicken to change it. Owner George Georgiou was adamant he would keep the name. He said at the time: "It is called Kent's because it is on Kent Street, and Tuck Inn because that's what you do at a restaurant.

"And we sell southern fried chicken so it has got absolutely nothing whatsoever to do with Kentucky Fried Chicken." There are also winning names such as the tanning salon in Sedgley called Beauty and the Beach.

And there is the Indian restaurant in Quarry Bank called Curry Bank.

Drunk man hit victim out cold in city centre

A DRUNK lorry driver 'danced around on his toes' like a boxer before knocking a man unconscious with a single punch, a court heard.

Freddie Halls sent his victim crashing to the ground with a devastating blow to the head in an unprovoked attack in Wolverhampton city centre. Wolverhampton Crown Court was told the 26-year-old father-of-two had been drinking heavily.

By Peter Madeley

Halls claimed to have no recollection of the incident during police interview. Mr David Lees, prosecuting, said Halls was walking along Lichfield Street when he approached a group which included his victim at around 2.15am on March 16.

"He walked towards the man and could clearly be seen dancing on his toes for a few moments before he administered the punch," he said. "He was preparing himself to strike." The court was told Halls had recently joined a boxing club.

The court heard Halls was arrested at the scene and admitted his guilt in a police interview after officers showed him CCTV footage of the incident. He told police that drinking alcohol changes his personality," added Mr Lees.

His victim had nine stitches to cuts on his lip and was off work for three months as a result of psychological harm he suffered as a result of the attack.

Mr Justin Jarmola, defending, said his client had abused alcohol from a young age. "He was significantly in drink at the time, but has abstained from alcohol since this offence. He is a family man with two young children. Any sentence of immediate custody would cause irreparable damage to his family."

Halls, of Queen Street, Walsall Wood, pleaded guilty to assault causing actual bodily harm. He was ordered to do 80 hours of unpaid work, pay £600 compensation and a £100 victim surcharge.

There's no hiding band's top talent

THE only way is up for a Walsall punk band who managed to get through to the finals of a prestigious competition – and only just a year after forming. Hidden Skies came second in a battle of the bands competition in Staffordshire after fighting against 20 other local groups, they got through to the final round earlier this month.

The contest has been held at the Tamworth Assembly Rooms for the past 20 years. The venue is well-known for its musical performances, with both The Beatles and The Rolling Stones previously taking to the stage there. The band is made up of five members and bass player Chris Hinton, aged 25, from Shire Oak, said: "We only started in 2013 and are very proud to have come second."

The quality engineer for BMW added: "Our first EP is out next month called A Story Untold, and is available September 1." The rest of the band comprises drummer Daniel Cope, 25, lead guitarist Richard Sehdeva, 25, rhythm guitarist Elliot Clarke, 25 and singer Alex Lenehan, 26.

Flower power helps Gertrude mark 104th

'HARD work' – that's the secret to longevity according to Gertrude Talbot, who has celebrated her 104th birthday.

The great-grandmother has lived in Walsall all her life. Born in Darlaston, she spent 10 years working as a cook for a local vicar.

She also recalls working for a factory in Willenhall, where she made knick-knacks. "Belonging to a big family, we all had to work hard," she said. "That went for every family back then. It was wicked what happened to us. The Government didn't help. We never saw a ha'penny.

"I managed by taking in sewing and cooking. People today don't know what we had to endure."

She recalls her mother telling her and her sisters to fetch their Sunday best dresses to give to some poor children who called at the house wearing rags. Mrs Talbot says exercise is another key to her long life. "We didn't have a car, so I walked and walked and walked," she said. "I felt grand when I was walking."

Gertrude Talbot celebrates her 104th birthday at the Elms Care Home in Bilston

Woodbines

She met her husband William through her brothers and the pair were married when she was 28 at St Mary's Church, where the family regularly attended mass. Sadly, he died aged 42 from throat cancer and is buried at Bilston Cemetery.

"It was the Woodbines he smoked," Mrs Talbot said. "They were all young men could afford back then."

Mrs Talbot has a son, Peter, who is 72, two grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. "I adore my boy," she said.

Born into a large Catholic family, she had six sisters and three brothers. Mrs Talbot was the oldest but one. Sadly, she has only two sisters left alive, Ruby, who lives in Bilston, and Mary, who lives in Gloucester.

The birthday girl, remembers when electricity cables were being laid in Bilston, where her family moved to when she was a child. "It was grand to have electricity," she added. "I can't believe that there's anyone alive now who remembers that." Mrs Talbot said that she had enjoyed her birthday at the Elms Care Home in Bilston. "The flowers were lovely and I had so many birthday cards. I didn't know I had so many friends."

A fervent teetotaller and a non-smoker, Mrs Talbot also puts her longevity down to her healthy lifestyle.

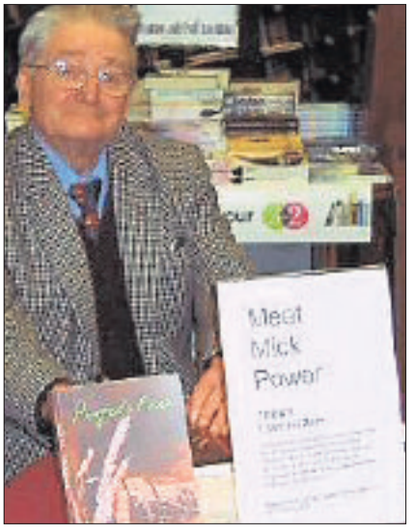
Wartime authors to appear at library



Mick Power, with his book Podger's Farm, who will be visiting Pheasey library with fellow author Ian Cassidy

TWO authors who have written about the Second World War will visit Pheasey Library later this year.

Mick Power and Ian Cassidy will be at Pheasey Library on October 2. Mr Power is well-known for his previously entertaining book, Podger's Farm.

The book reveals an interesting account of the author's childhood memories, his school days and families. His current book, It Puts Muscles On Your Eyebrows, also tells of his experiences in the regiment in the Second World War.

Mr Cassidy will be discussing his book, The Unsinkable Herr Goering, which is about Hermann Goering who was Hitler's right-hand man for much of the dictator's time as leader of the Third Reich in Germany.

They will be at the library between 10.30am and noon.

There will also be war poetry with a question and answer

Trio used pal's key to gain entry in burglary

THREE men made off with £2,000 and a wristwatch from the Walsall home of a friend in a 'mean and nasty' burglary, a court heard.

Brothers Satish and Sunil Chumber used a key their victim had accidentally left in their house to carry out the raid with another man, Adrian Lalley.

Wolverhampton Crown Court was told the trio returned the key to its owner the following day – just hours after they had burgled his house.

Report by Peter Made-

Mr Justin Jarmola, prosecuting, said the victim, of Wolverhampton Road, Bentley, had been playing computer games at the Chumber brothers' house in Walsall on Christmas Eve in 2012.

"He was on his way home when he realised he didn't have his key with him," Mr Jarmola said. "He phoned Sunil Chumber who confirmed that the keys were at his house."

The court was told the raiders stopped off at a convenience store and bought rubber gloves prior to carrying out the burglary to 'cover their tracks'.

Miss Laura Hobson, defending Satish Chumber, said her client had made 'some very stupid decisions', but had shown a willingness to change his ways during seven months in prison on remand.

Mr Gurdeep Garcha QC, said Sunil Chumber had made the choice to 'go straight' since committing the offence. Defending Lalley, Mr Jasvir Mann, said: "We are two years down the road since the offence and he is determined to put this sort of offending behind him."

The court was told the men had since repaid the £2,000 they had stolen.

Judge Amjad Nawaz told the defendants: "This was a mean and nasty offence."

Satish Chumber, aged 21 and Sunil Chumber, 23, both of Slaney Road, Walsall and Lalley, 24, of Cottle Close, Bentley, Walsall, all pleaded guilty to burglary. They were each sentenced to 12 months in prison, suspended for 18 months and ordered to carry out 150 hours of unpaid work.

Satish Chumber also admitted perverting the course of justice, after the court heard he had phoned the victim on 'three or four occasions' to try and persuade him to withdraw his statement. He was sentenced to an additional three months in prison.

The houses flat-pack built, within one day

FLAT-PACK furniture is one thing, but now the whole house can be built that way in a day.

Two whole homes were constructed in just eight hours on a new estate in Walsall – a first for the UK.

But even though there was no sign of the famous Ikea Allen key, the feat was achieved by just five builders who worked to get them built in Beechdale.

The timber, semi-detached properties – the brainchild of Midlands-based housing association Accord Group – were produced first in a factory in bits before being transported over to the housing estate off Stephenson Avenue where they were put together.

Accord's executive director for regeneration, Alan Yates, said the speed of the project had surprised a lot of people.

He said: "It's incredible really that these two houses were built pretty much from scratch in the space of just a day. In the morning all we had were the concrete foundations and by the end of it we had two brand new three bedroom homes."

In the past three years Accord has built 150 off-site manufactured homes in Wolverhampton, Walsall and Sandwell.

Mr Yates continued: "It's the first time we've built two of these homes in the same day. There were no problems with the construction. Everything went smoothly. The houses are so easy to put together which is why they don't take long to build."

Construction of the two houses began at 8am and the finishing touches were being made just before 4pm.

The homes were manufactured in the Accord factory which is opposite the housing estate. They then left the factory as panels with insulation, double glazing windows and door frames already attached and were taken across the road on pallets carried by a fork lift truck.

Scaffolding was installed around the concrete foundations before the side panels were added to the structure. In total, 25 major components made up the two homes including timber side panels, flooring and a roof.Housing Minister Brandon Lewis spent the day with Accord on Tuesday – to see the two homes being built and to witness first hand the modern methods of housing construction. He visited two other Accord developments in Blakenall and Birchills.

Call over Gershwin production

A MUSICAL theatre group is looking to recruit new members for its latest show.

Willenhall Musical Theatre Company is putting together a performance of Gershwin musical Crazy For You and needs to recruit around seven male performers. They are holding new member auditions on September 13 at St Andrews Church, Wolverhampton Road West.

Company producer Andy Poulton said: "A lot of musical theatre companies are low on figures at the minute but we really need a good group of men to join for this next performance.

"The show is predominantly male based and so we hope to see people turn up for these auditions."

The company will perform a five night residence at the Mill Theatre in Sedgley next April.

Flats scheme for pub site

A FORMER pub near Willenhall town centre is poised to be converted into flats, under new plans.

The old Acorn pub, in Walsall Road, closed down in 2012 due to a downturn in trade.

A planning application lodged with Walsall Council would see the ground floor of the building transformed into three, two bedroom flats.

The existing two-bedroom flat would be retained on the first floor.

FOCUS ON WILLENHALL

Expansion plan hopes for leading fruit farm

AN award-winning restaurant and farm shop could be in line for an expansion creating up to 10 new jobs if plans are given the go-ahead.

Essington Fruit Farm in Bognop Road, Essington, near Willenhall, has applied for planning permission to extend its restaurant and create a new visitor centre providing cookery demonstrations.

There would also be lessons held for visiting school parties as a result of the extra space.

Owner Mary Simkin said the extension would allow the restaurant hold demonstrations about the origins of food before serving up meals. "It is something people have been asking us to do for a long time," she said. "It will allow us to have an education room where people can learn about what goes into the food they eat, and about the preparation of food.

"At the moment we grow 30 different types of fruit and vegetables, and we have our own butchery on site. People have asked us if we can show them how we make our sausages, but at the moment health and safety legislation prevents that. However, if we had a special room, it is something we might be able to look at in future." Mrs Simkin said the expansion could create between five and 10 jobs if the scheme was given the go ahead.

The farm has been owned by the Simkin family since 1892, and the Country Kitchen restaurant won the 'best use of local produce' category at the Taste of Staffordshire Good Food Awards.

Mrs Simkin added: "We have a commitment to providing our produce as fresh as possible and as we grow our own produce it is often the case that fruit and vegetables are less than an hour old before they are sold in our farm shop .

"March 2007 saw the opening of our Butchery and Deli giving us an outlet for our own free range pork and beef and lamb from neighbouring farmers.

A planning application is being considered by South Staffordshire Council.

Daniel Duffield, aged 14, is creating a homemade haunted house for Halloween

Daniel in hopes of a haunting

A SCHOOLBOY with a passion for all things horror is spending his summer holidays planning how he will transform his home this Halloween and open it up to the public.

Pool Hayes High school pupil, Daniel Duffield , aged 14, has set himself a £200 budget to decorate his three-bed semi in Willenhall with cobwebs, pumpkins, strobe lighting and fog all in the name of charity.

Volunteers will dress up as characters such as Freddy Krueger, Michael Myers to scare anyone brave enough to enter for the 10-minute experience.

For the last few weeks Daniel, from Trinity Road in Short Heath has been researching haunted houses on the internet.

He said: "There are seven rooms and each one is going to have a different theme. I've been racking my brain trying to come up with ideas that will scare people."

Waste firm faces action by council

FRESH legal action is being taken against a waste firm after council chiefs said it was using two sites illegally. AB Waste in Darlaston, will be prosecuted by Walsall Council.

The authority first served enforcement notices on the firm in 2012 requiring operations to stop on two sites within a specified time.

But any further action against the firm, which has been blamed for dust settling on headstones at James Bridge Cemetery, was delayed after the notices were appealed.

The Planning Inspectorate visited the sites of the former Railway Tavern, in Kendricks Road, and the former Junction Works site, off Cemetery Road, last year and ruled in the council's favour dismissing the appeals. The authority says legal files were being finalised. The firm refused to comment.

Firm hiring apprentices

A LEADING motor industry firm has offered a helping hand to the young and unemployed across the West Midlands.

Used car supermarket Carcraft is taking on six apprentices at its showroom on Darlaston Road, Wednesbury, and will provide those selected with paid on-the-job training.

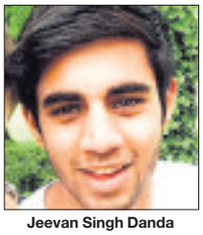
The apprenticeships will be split across finance, vehicle service and customer service. Carcraft already has over 20 apprentices.

Hockey teen tributes

Flowers in memory of Jeevan at Cannock Hockey Club

FLORAL tributes have been laid in memory of a keen teenage hockey player whose team have retired his shirt number after his death. Jeevan Singh Dhanda, aged 18, from Walsall, died almost a week after being found on rail tracks near Birmingham New Street earlier this month.

He was a member of Cannock Men's Hockey Club and people have been paying their respects. A book of condolence has been started and his number 55 shirt has been retired.



Jeevan Singh Danda

A statement from the club said: "Jeevan was a lifelong member of Cannock Men's Hockey Club and a very polite and intelligent young man. Notwithstanding his ability on a hockey field he is the sort of member who we, rightly, should be very proud of."

He was a pupil at Queen Mary's Grammar School in Walsall and was due to study economics at the University of Leeds in September. It is believed his family were told he had secured three A grades the day after his death. After the fall on on August 7, he was rushed to Queen Elizabeth Hospital but died some days later.

A second man, a 30 year-old from Birmingham who was also found injured after suffering injuries 'consistent with a fall' died last Monday.

Community hub scheme is given the green light

PLANS to transform an empty high street unit into a social centre, gift shop and food bank have been approved. The community hub will be run by St Thomas Church in Aldridge.

It will be based at the former Beautie hairdressers in Walsall Wood Road. The church runs a scheme on the Leighswood estate and now wants to run the St Thomas Project.

Walsall Council has approved the application under delegated powers. The development has been hailed as a boost for the area. Councillor Timothy Wilson said: "I do think it is a community asset that is needed and I'm backing it."

The project will generate funds through selling cards and craft items at a gift shop.

"There will be a food bank to provide parcels to people with valid Black Country Food Bank vouchers and social meeting group with a hot meal for young adults.

The base will provide counselling, a job club and pop-in and play social meeting setting. It will also have furniture, school uniform and clothing storage for re-distribution to those in need. Plans have been submitted to the council through Karl Grace Design, on behalf of the church.

By Adam Burling

It states: "196H Walsall Wood Road was originally constructed in the 1950s-60s as part of a row of shops accessed via a service road and parking area, off the main road. Until recently the property was occupied by the beautician/beauty therapy business which due to the recent recession has ceased trading."

The project will propose to be open from 9am to 11pm Monday to Friday inclusive, and 9am-4pm on Saturdays, and closed on Sundays and Bank Holidays.

Sorting coal at a pit on Cannock Chase, where miners were attracted from ailing

Jimmy Andrews cleans beams at Cannock Shotblasting

Pit pony Bob retired from Cannock Wood Colliery in 1969

Chase was gunner be the centre of country's armoury industry

MEMORY LANE

By Professor Carl Chinn

FOOTBALL club Arsenal took its name from the arms manufacturing plant in Woolwich, south east London.

Yet only years before its founding in 1883 it was seriously proposed that the large-scale production of arms be moved from the capital to Cannock Chase.

There were compelling arguments. Woolwich was vulnerable to enemy attack and invasion, the transportation of raw materials was expensive, wages were costly and there were very limited facilities for the trial of guns because of the dense population and the dampness of the locality.

By contrast, Cannock Chase seemed an outstanding location. It was an immense moor of 25,000 acres that was 100 miles inland and in the middle of England. As such it offered more security for a national arsenal.

The site was cheap, water was abundant, coal was below the ground and iron ore was nearby. Furthermore, railways and canals cut through the Chase at several points, and the South Staffordshire Line ran through its centre, thus easily connecting it to all parts of the kingdom.

And the villages that dotted the district could readily be expanded to provide housing for the mechanics and labourers who would work there.

The idea was never realised as the interests of Woolwich were too powerful and because Cannock Chase was transformed into one of the greatest mining centres in England.

Coal became king on the Chase. As new mines were sunk, the name of Cannock – taken from the Welsh cnwc or Old English cnocc, for hill or hillock – remained pre-eminent.

Most authorities assert that the high ground that led to this remarkable place name was Shoal Hill. But in his authoritative dictionary of the Place Names of Staffordshire, David Horovitz points out that such a high place cannot be a deemed as a hillock.

Instead he feels that Cannock is named after the slight hill of gravelly soil upon which the town was sited from at least the later Middle Ages.

Furnaces

Originally the inhabitants were part of the huge royal Forest of Cannock, which stretched from close to Stafford to near Walsall. It is believed this was as great as 24,000 acres at the time of the Domesday Book in 1086. Within it were a number of hays (enclosures) for the management of deer, among them Cheslyn Hay.

Coal was mined in a small way from as far back as 1298, while blast furnaces were in use on the Chase from the later 16th century.

Thomas, the third Lord Paget of Beaudesert, developed large-scale works that included mines of ironstone, two furnaces, two forges, and a handful of cottages for his workmen. But for all these examples of industrialism, as late as 1848, only 2,852 people lived on the 20,000 acres of Cannock Chase.

Researcher Frederick Hackwood says that from the mid-19th century 'the vast heathery waste of Cannock gave way to the busy almost populous mining region of which it mainly consists today'.

According to him, 'the pioneers whose first sinkings led to the establishment of the present large collieries on the Chase were Mr William Harrison and the late John Robinson McClean MP, who began operations in 1848'.

The rapid expansion of mining on the Chase also led to the consequent rise in population.

In 1872, Chasetown was described as 'deriving its existence from the coal-field' and as such was remarkable for its rapid growth. As for Hednesford it was stated that this was 'an entirely new town'.

Sea of Poppies at the Tower of London

Discover the amazing history behind the world's most famous fortress which has been a royal palace, armoury, zoo and prison. See the precious Crown Jewels, and the legendary Beefeaters who guard the tower walls and tell grisly tales of days gone by. This is a remembrance break not to be missed!

The break begins with a visit to the Imperial War Museum which, to celebrate the anniversary of the First World War, will open new galleries and a redesigned atrium.

Admire the world's largest collection of Victoria crosses, see the biggest display of British First World War art in almost 100 years, and be inspired by the permanent works featuring stories of life during the Holocaust.

The highlight of the trip is the visit to the Tower of London, built by William the Conqueror and home of many exhibitions and royal artefacts. There is also the chance to discover how the tower was defended, via interactive displays.

There will be a commemorative poppy display, to mark 100 years since Britain's involvement in the First World War. The tower's moat will contain 888,246 ceramic poppies – one for each British and Colonial soldier who lost their life during the war.

PICK OF THE WEEK

Reece plays it straight in a new police drama

Comedy can be a funny business. One minute you're at the top of the tree, the next you can be forgotten, a spent force no longer able to raise a smile.

When the Monty Python TV series ended, nobody knew what the future would hold for its members.

Some observers thought they may vanish without a trace, but in fact, they all went on to enjoy varying degrees of success – for them, the sum of the whole was not greater than the parts.

The same could be said about the League of Gentlemen team. Jeremy Dyson (the one everybody always forgets about) has enjoyed success in the fields of writing and directing, while Steve Pemberton is an instantly recognisable character actor and Mark Gatiss is a loveable polymath.

For a while it seemed that Reece Shearsmith might not reach the heights of his colleagues, but in the past year that's all changed.

Inside Number 9, the series he wrote and starred in with Pemberton, was a resounding success, and he also reinvented himself as a dramatic actor with roles in the horror movie A Field in England and on the small screen in The Widower.

He's playing it straight again in new series Chasing Shadows, ITV, 9.00pm.

"I'm probably what you would describe as a character actor and I do immerse myself in the parts," says Shearsmith.

"I don't get recognised a lot because I'm usually disguised on screen. "I quite like the level I'm at where I can have a normal life and walk around. The work is the thing that speaks for me. I'm not really a personality, I just do the acting and that's what I want people to see."

That may all change if Chasing Shadows is a major success and returns for another series after this initial run of four episodes.

The Hull-born actor reckons it could continue. "I'd love to do more. I think it's only the start of what could be a really interesting journey for all of the characters. There are so many stories that could be told."

Shearsmith plays DS Sean Stone, a misfit who struggles to deal with people and is reassigned to a missing person's unit after offending his boss.

There he meets Ruth Hattersley, who learns to deal with Sean's odd quirks and habits, and quickly realises how useful he could be when it comes to finding lost souls.

Alex Kingston portrays her, and Noel Clarke has been cast as their boss, DI Prior.

Their first case involves the disappearance of 16-year-old schoolgirl Taylor, and will be told over two nail-biting episodes.

She's initially thought to be a routine runaway, until Sean discovers she had a dark secret and was logging into internet forums about suicide.

We won't give away what happens next, but Sean's attention to detail enables him and Ruth to uncover something very shocking indeed.

It's an unforgettable story, and after it has been broadcast, you can bet that Shearsmith won't be able to stay anonymous for long.

Don Warrington, Adjoa Andoh, Alfie Field, Lynda Baron, Myriam Acharki and Imogen Daines also star.

Reece Shearsmith stars in Chasing Shadows, Thursday, ITV, 9pm

BEST OF THE REST

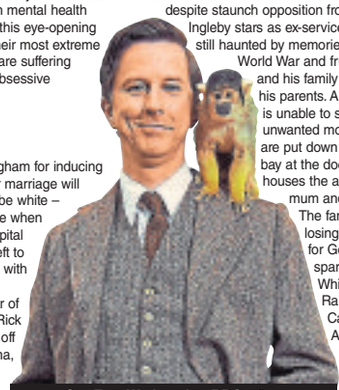
MONDAY
Long Lost Family
ITV, 9pm
It may be an award-winning, emotionally wrenching TV series, but we're almost glad Long Lost Family is coming to an end this week – our tear ducts need a break. They'll get one final workout this week though as we meet 53-year-old Sandra Macdonald, who was given up for adoption as a baby. Growing up in Edinburgh, she never felt fully accepted by her adoptive family, and at the age of 15 she decided to search for her biological mother. She began her journey at the offices of the church organisation, where she was told that her mother had sinned and wouldn't want to be reminded of her transgressions. Now the Long Lost Family pick up the case.

Alex Polizzi: The Fixer
BBC2, 9pm
The hotelier and entrepreneur returns to help more struggling firms, this time finding solutions for certain critical issues that lead to the closure of many companies. She begins by visiting Paul Walker, who set up a micro-brewery in the heart of the Devon countryside, but has seen his finances spiral out of control and his family life begin to suffer. Alex shows him how to capitalise on the growing popularity of British real ale overseas, with a trip to Paris revealing interesting export opportunities for his products.

TUESDAY
Dogs: Their Secret Lives
Channel 4, 8pm
Dogs are pretty great creatures. They love hanging out with their human buddies and don't seem to have a care in the world – or do they? We wouldn't normally associate canines with mental health issues, but the final episode of this eye-opening series suggests that some of their most extreme behaviours could indicate they are suffering from certain issues, including obsessive compulsion and chronic fears.

In the Club
BBC1, 9pm
Jasmin is furious with Dr Bellingham for inducing her labour, worried whether her marriage will survive if the baby turns out to be white – and things go from bad to worse when she encounters Jack in the hospital after his fight with Dev. Kim is left to mend her fractured relationship with Susie and Neil following the revelation that Jude is the father of Rosie's baby, while Diane and Rick are optimistic as Hope is taken off the ventilator. Kay Mellor's drama, starring Taj Atwal, Sacha Dhawan and Jill Halfpenny.

WEDNESDAY
Our Zoo
BBC1, 9pm
New series. Drama based on the true story of the Mottershead family, who made a huge personal sacrifice to establish Chester Zoo in the 1930s – despite staunch opposition from the locals. Lee Ingleby stars as ex-serviceman George, still haunted by memories of the First World War and frustrated that he and his family have to live with his parents. An animal lover, he is unable to stand by while an unwanted monkey and camel are put down in the quarantine bay at the docks, so he houses the animals in his mum and dad's backyard. The family think he is losing his mind – but for George it's the spark of an idea. Liz White, Anne Reid, Ralf Little, Stephen Campbell Moore, Amelia Clarkson, Karl Collins and Sophia Myles co-star.



Our Zoo, Wednesday, BBC1, 9pm

THURSDAY
Dallas
Channel 5, 10pm
As series three kicks off, Sue Ellen is busy planning John Ross and Pamela's wedding. And what's the first rule of celebrations in soap land? That's right, they never go off without a fight. In this case the groom clashes with Bobby over their joint ownership of Southfork Ranch. As if that's not controversial enough, he also begins an affair with Emma. Meanwhile, Elena is back, and it seems her relationship with Christopher is beyond repair. Veteran favourites Linda Gray and Patrick Duffy star with Josh Henderson, Jordana Brewster and Jesse Metcalfe.

FRIDAY
Boomers
BBC1, 9pm
The friends gather for Joyce's retirement party, where John has made a tribute video – but forgotten to ask Trevor for his tribute – Maureen latches onto a trendy young couple at the party and Alan has bad news that might ruin proceedings – unless the guest of honour spoils it first by confronting her neighbour about her kids' unruly behaviour. Alison Steadman and Philip Jackson star in the sitcom, with Russ Abbot, Stephanie Beacham, Paula Wilcox and James Smith.

Clear move from diesels

New car buyers are moving back towards petrol engines after years of diesel domination, if Ford's latest sales figures are any guide.

The company has revealed that its multi-award-winning 1.0-litre Ecoboost turbocharged petrol engine now powers one in every five cars sold in Europe, totalling 120,000 vehicles from January to the end of June.

That figure is an increase from 104,000 1.0-litre Ecoboost-powered cars sold in the same period in 2013.

Within the statistics there is a clear move away from diesel in some sectors, with the B-Max showing 47 per cent of sales going to the smallest Ecoboost unit. One third (33 per cent) of Focus buyers also went for the same engine.

"Customers are clearly enjoying the benefits from a small engine that offers great fuel efficiency with no compromise to refinement or performance," said Barb Samardzich, chief operating officer, Ford of Europe.

"The range of models offering the 1.0-litre EcoBoost engine will rise to 11 when the all-new Mondeo is launched in the coming months, and the new 140 PS version in the Fiesta Red Edition and Black Edition shows there is even more potential."

The engine is the first to win the international Engine of the Year accolade three times running, and is available in 99bhp, 123bhp and 138bhp versions according to model choice.

Peugeot's new estate will tick all the boxes for families

By Ian Donaldson

Peugeot has been very thorough in adapting its current European Car of the Year for the role of load lugging estate to take on some formidable opposition.

It means the new 308 SW can stand its corner against the likes of a VW Golf, SEAT Leon or Ford Focus as family holdall with more practicality than a hatchback.

To make sure the SW is up to the mark in the down to earth world of family motoring, it has front and rear wheels further apart than on the hatchback, with a little of the extra room devoted to rear seat passengers, but most of the extra space released for luggage.

Ramping up the practicality quotient, the split/folding rear seats flop forward at the pull of a couple of levers in the boot sides to give a floor so near perfectly flat you'll never notice the tiny incline, unlike the ski slope of some other estates and SUVs.

The resultant 1,660 litres of load space betters the Golf and SEAT by a little (both with 1,620 litres), while the Focus, with 1,502 litres of space, is kicked into the long grass.

Boon

A useful added touch of practicality is the little ski hatch between the seats that will be a boon on trips to the DIY store for long, thin bits of wood. Also, the boot cover retracts into its own cassette, which then stows securely out of the way in a slot under the boot floor.

Peugeot missed a trick by not letting the front passenger seat flop forward to get the absolute most out of the space inside their new machine, but otherwise they've done a thorough job of the move from hatch to estate.

So thorough that the £700 premium for all that extra stowage space and a little more room in the back seats looks more than reasonable.

The 308 SW range starts at £16,845 for a version powered by Peugeot's new 1.2-litre engine; a three-cylinder unit chosen for its economy potential and the same basic design that's rapidly becoming an industry standard in the race to cut consumption and exhaust pipe pollution.

The range then expands to take in more powerful version of the same 1.2-litre petrol unit, along with a couple of diesels, with 1.6 and 2.0-litre displacements, and tops out at £25,145 for a bells and whistles Feline trim car with automatic gears.

Every 308 SW shares the same dashboard found in the hatchback, which means drivers new to the car will need to get used to a tiny steering wheel designed to let you see the instrument panel over the top of the rim not through it, like you find in just about every other car made this last half century.

Bold

It's a bold design move from Peugeot and there are people who never find the new arrangement as easily mastered as taking the conventional route. Lots of others soon don't notice, while enjoying the mildly go-kart feel imparted by that small steering wheel.

Design feature number two is a dashboard almost devoid of switches, with just about everything consigned to a big screen activated by a tap or two of the driver's fingers. It certainly declutters the cockpit but renders some apparently simple commands (changing the radio channel, adjusting temperatures, for instance) more complex than before.

The 308 SW drives in precisely the same manner as its slightly smaller hatchback sibling, which means it's up there with the class best in terms of ride and ability to tackle a corner with zest and aplomb.

Those are two words you didn't associate with Peugeot for years, but the brand is rediscovering its mojo, which used to mean an easy going sense of style, and hopefully is back on track.

Couple that with the deeply drawn practicality of the new SW version of the 308 (and the near certainty of beating 40mpg however you drive) and Peugeot's winning streak looks set to continue.

NOTICE TO READERS
Please be aware that when purchasing a puppy there are some simple guidelines you can follow to ensure that you are not purchasing from a Puppy Farmer:
1. Try to ensure you visit the puppy whilst it is still with it's Mother.
2. Do not arrange to collect a puppy from any other location than that of the breeder.
3. Ensure that you are given any KC documentation, if pedigree.
Whilst Midland News Association publications take great care to avoid publication of advertisements from Puppy Farmers we cannot accept any liability should readers purchase from this kind of establishment.

Downing aims to stand tall for the Saddlers

PAUL Downing is looking to stand tall this season, in more ways than one.

The centre-back might only be 22 but he is already one of the old heads in the Walsall team.

Quickly closing in on 100 appearances for the Saddlers, Downing is also emerging as a young leader in a defence which many believed had lost a vital component in the summer with the exit of skipper Andy Butler.

Downing was subsequently named vice-captain and says he is ready to help fill the void left by his former defensive partner both on and off the field.

With seven of the side which finished Saturday's game at Leyton Orient aged 22 or under, the defender feels it is his job to set the example.

"I have got to take the responsibility on," he says. "I was given the vice-captaincy this season so I'm getting older now and more experienced. It is time to step up from what Andy did.

"I have had the experience of playing alongside him now and I have got to look after the likes of Liam Kinsella alongside me and show him the ropes. I will look to build on that this season."

Handful

While Downing wants to be a sounding board for the likes of Kinsella, Reece Flanagan and Kieron Morris, he is also eager to again be part of a mean defence.

The season might be only a handful of weeks old but the signs are the Saddlers may not miss Butler as much has had been feared.

Two clean sheets in the opening four league games is a decent platform from which to build, and the back four's strength in depth has already been tested by injuries to James O'Connor, Ben Purkiss and James Chambers.

Kinsella and Dean Holden, two players at the opposite end of their careers, have both impressed and even more pleasing for Downing is how the defence have flourished in exactly the situations they were expected to struggle.

Tom Pope, James Hanson and Darius Henderson are three of the division's more industrial strikers, the type Butler would usually have been tasked with dealing with.

Yet only Pope has enjoyed any success against the new-look Saddlers backline.

"I think that will give us confidence," said Downing. "They are proven goalscorers at this level and are scoring every week but we are managing to keep them out."

Meanwhile, Walsall boss Dean Smith admits Sam Mantom will have to play through the pain barrier to shake his injury woes.

Paul Downing has become a towering figure for Walsall

Mantom, last year's player of the season, has been sidelined with a knee ligament injury since early July.

The midfielder appeared close to a return when he appeared as a substitute in the final pre-season friendly against Villa, but according to Smith has since suffered several 'knock-backs'.

Frustrating

Now the manager believes the 22-year-old former Albion man needs to play through the pain barrier to complete his return.

"It's been frustrating for all of us, none more so than for Sam himself," said Smith.

"He is doing everything – training and kicking the ball with his left foot but every so often he has just felt it when he has used his right.

"He's had the scan and it has shown the structure of the knee is sound and there is not much to worry about, so he is going to have to go and play through the pain barrier a little bit to get back into it."

He added: "You just don't know with this type of injury, you can't feel anybody else's pain so it is a tough one. But it is one Sam has got to come through."

Mantom will not be involved in this afternoon's League One game at Leyton Orient with Billy Clifford again set to partner Adam Chambers in the middle of the park.

And Smith admits the form of Clifford means Mantom is not guaranteed an instant recall to the first team when he regains full fitness.

Wood hit a hat-trick of victories

Walsall Wood 2 Causeway United 1

Football

WOOD made it three wins in 10 days as goals from Max Black after 34 minutes and debutant Daniel Holgate on 51 put them in the driving seat.

A scrambled effort by Jack Pearlman with 17 minutes to go made for a tense last 20 minutes, but Wood held out to record a welcome three points that takes them up to 13th place in the table.

After just six minutes Drew Aiton cut in from the left and found Joey Butlin, his first time effort comfortably saved by keeper Sam Hawker.

Then on 17 minutes a ball into the right of the box saw Daniel Holgate hold the ball up before playing the ball back for Corey Currithers to hit a low drive that was well held by Hawker.

Aaron Lloyd got clear on the Causeway right, his low cross took out 2 defenders but keeper Mario Kisiel made the ball his. A minute later Reece Shilvock raced in from wide left, he went through 2 tackles and his low drive was held at full stretch by Kisiel.

Back came Wood, Danny Forrest hitting a near post cross from wide left, Darren Whitley heading the ball behind to deny Butlin.

On 26 minutes it was Forrest again racing onto a ball into the centre of the box, his shot was blocked but ballooned in the air for Aiton to hit an acrobatic volley that brought a full-length save from Hawker.

Back came the visitors, two minutes later Shilvock collected the ball from a left wing throw his first time drive flying just wide of the far post. Then 3 minutes later Matt Gardener raced onto a ball wide left and raced to the byeline before cutting the ball back for Lloyd to fire first time high over.

Wood went ahead on 37 minutes, a long ball forward found Holgate who held the ball up before releasing Max Black into the left of the box, he went through one challenge and fired into the bottom corner.

After a quiet opening to the second half Wood increased their lead on 51 minutes, Tom Evans crossed from wide right, Butlin flicked the ball on and Holgate swept the ball home for a debut goal.

After 57 minutes Jack Pearlman raced clear wide right, his low cross taken bravely by Kisiel at the feet of Lloyd.

Then on 70 minutes a neat move involving Forrest and Danny McGhee saw the ball played inside to Butlin, his reverse ball released McGhee in on goal, his attempted chip claimed at full stretch by Hawker.

An attempted clearance was charged down by Tye who raced for goal, Anthony Juxon making a great tackle at the expense of a corner. From the left wing corner the ball dropped for Pearlman to fire home from close range.

With 85 minutes gone and a neat one-two by McGhee with Adams wide on the left saw him crowded out .A minute from time McGhee crossed to release Black into the box,who fired just wide.

Glovers come off the better at Saddlers

Walsall 1 Yeovil 2

BOTH these sides were without a win in eight league games stretching back to last season, so something was always likely to give.

Unfortunately for Dean Smith and the Saddlers, it was the visitors who broke their duck.

The hosts had chances – notably in the first half – but failed to take them and though Tom Bradshaw cancelled out James Hayter's second-half opener, Kevin Dawson restored the Glovers' advantage immediately as they took their first win of the season.

Smith and his players must wait for theirs after a night which provided more questions than answers.

As expected the only change in the Walsall line-up came in defence where Dean Holden replaced the injured James Chambers.

That meant another start for 18-year-old Liam Kinsella. The teenager was superb against Bradford on Saturday but in the opening five minutes sold a backpass short which almost allowed Hayter in, before Billy Clifford hacked the ball clear.

It was the visitors who should have taken the lead only for Hayter to blast wide after getting in thanks to Joe Edwards' sublime ball.

Yeovil made most of the early running, but the Saddlers seemed to be fashioning the better chances on the break. Ashley Grimes sliced horribly wide after starting a lovely move which ended with him receiving a cross from Benning in stride 10 yards from goal.

At the other end, Nathan Smith caused consternation with a low cross which was missed by a host of Yeovil players when only a finishing touch was required.

Heading into the final five minutes of the first period, half the crowd thought Andy Taylor's free-kick had flown into the top corner and not, as in fact, just wide.

Romaine Sawyers then squandered a great chance when he was played in by a smart Grimes flick but his weak finish, which dribbled yards wide, drew groans from fans.

Edwards and Sawyers were then both off-target. As the Saddlers pressed, Yeovil's goal 11 minutes into the half felt like a sucker punch – though it came from a fine move. One-touch passing ended with Dawson crossing and Hayter heading into the top corner.

The hosts huffed and puffed and levelled with a goal which owed more to persistence than fancy football. A corner was returned into the box by skipper Adam Chambers; Paul Downing turned the ball to Bradshaw and he scrambled it home from four yards. But they were level for less than a minute, as Smith crossed. Dawson claimed the goal; AJ Leitch-Smith may have chested it over the line and boss Smith claimed handball.

The Saddlers saw appeals for a penalty waved away when Bakayoko appeared to be pushed over.

Skipper Chambers is offering no excuses

ADAM CHAMBERS has been in the game too long to worry about one result.

Having previously seen more than a year of his career wiped out through injury, the Walsall skipper is understandably a man who rarely takes the short-term view.

Nevertheless, there is a definite determination to put things right .

Chambers makes no excuses for Walsall's 2-1 home defeat to Yeovil. It was a game many feel the Saddlers should have won, but the captain was not satisfied with the performance.

"Yeovil pressed us and we weren't quite at the levels we have shown we can be," he says.

"That was the disappointing thing. There was the odd occasion when we broke the press and created chances and that is the good thing – if they go in it is a totally different game.

"It's disappointing not to get the result and our performance levels dropped a little bit from what they had been in the first three games.

"I think you have to give credit to Yeovil, they pressed us quite hard and didn't really allow us to find the passing level we had in the first three games. It's disappointing but at the same time it is still early days."

Chambers says he can understand the reaction of supporters to the defeat, which meant the Saddlers took just one point from their opening two home games.

While grumbling on the terraces may be symptomatic of a hangover from last season's poor finish, the skipper insists that has been forgotten in the dressing room. And he believes Romaine Sawyers, whose substitution was greeted by sarcastic cheers from a minority of supporters, has the character to come through any slump in form.

"Romaine is a very talented player and he is always pushing himself in training," said Chambers. "He wants to be the best player he can be and he is still a young guy.

"With young players, and even old players, you sometimes get a bit of inconsistency and he is striving to be the best he can be. It was disappointing to hear it (the crowd reaction) but he is a strong character as well. I'm confident he will have a good season.

"The way he plays he has an old head on young shoulders and he is very calm on the ball.

"He is still a young player and he is still learning. Sometimes you get these inconsistencies but it is important that we as a team stick together and obviously we need the fans to stick behind us."

Chambers added: "From the fans point of view there were frustrations and we understand that.

"We are trying to give them a team to be proud of and play in a style where we control games and create chances.

"You understand sometimes when things don't go as we'd like and there is frustration for us too.

"But it is one of those things, it is one game and we have got to be positive and look ahead.

"We need to get our performance levels back to where we can be and if we do that I'm sure we'll be fine."

Sawyers must do better – Smith

DEAN SMITH has said Romaine Sawyers must do better – but backed the Walsall forward to prove his critics wrong.

The 22-year-old struggled in Tuesday's 2-1 home defeat to Yeovil Town and his substitution late on was greeted by sarcastic cheers from sections of the crowd.

Sawyers later acknowledged on Twitter that the performance was 'well below' his own personal standards. But Smith does not expect the former Albion ace to shirk his responsibilities.

"It is tough on them but Romaine knows he has to do better," said Smith. "One thing he does not do is shy away from it."

Sawyers was guilty of missing two good chances in the defeat to the Glovers and has not scored since January.

The Saddlers, meanwhile, have won just once at home during that period and taken just one point from the first two league games in front of their own fans this season. And Smith admitted the players are feeling the pressure.

"Pressure builds all the time and when people talk about us not scoring on Saturday, even though we played ever so well, players feel that," said the manager.

Fans send backing for Romaine

WALSALL boss Dean Smith has received email messages of support from fans backing out-of-sorts forward Romaine Sawyers.

The manager admits he was disappointed to hear the 22-year-old's substitution met by ironic cheers from sections of the home crowd after a below-par display in the 2-1 defeat to Yeovil.

But he has since received messages from supporters backing Sawyers to turn his form around.

"I was disappointed with the ironic cheers and he will be as well, because he is a talented player and is one who every manager who comes in after the game talks about.

"It was only a minority and the pleasing thing is I have had emails since from a number of supporters backing him and he can be a really good player for us.

"He didn't look confident in front of goal and that certainly won't help him. We will have a chat with him."

Wolves close in on Saville deal

WOLVES were closing in on the signing of Chelsea midfielder George Saville.

The 21-year-old spent several hours at Compton on Monday undergoing a medical and having talks and officials hope to announce what is understood to be a loan deal with a view to a permanent signing shortly.

Medicals at Wolves are usually spread over two days.

Camberley-born Saville, who has a year left on his contract at Chelsea and has been cleared to leave, would become head coach Kenny Jackett's third summer signing after Tommy Rowe and Rajiv van La Parra.

Smith is set on signing a striker

DEAN SMITH wants Walsall to be more clinical and insisted a new striker will arrive before the month is out.

The Saddlers boss sees a centre-forward as the final piece of the jigsaw after a summer spent rebuilding his forward line.

But after appearing close to a deal on several occasions, another week seems set to pass without Smith snaring his man.

The boss says the club are staying patient and covering all bases in their search and remains confident a deal will be done before the transfer window closes.

"You can't always say let's go and get a certain player because I have seen too many times it falls through," said Smith, who is looking at both permanent and loan possibilities.

"You have to have all bases covered and that is what we are trying to do.

"Hopefully something will happen but unfortunately you just have to wait and be patient.

"We are no closer than after the game on Tuesday but I will have someone in before the window closes, that is for sure."Smith believes they have deserved to take more from the opening three games and says it is a question of getting the basics right.

Lambert is delighted at defence

BOSS Paul Lambert has praised Villa's new-look defence after they made it successive clean sheets to start the Premier League season.

Saturday's 0-0 draw with Newcastle followed an opening-day 1-0 success at Stoke City.

Villa are yet to concede a goal this season, with new signings Philippe Senderos and Aly Cissokho, and the back in favour Alan Hutton all impressing.

And Lambert said: "We have been tougher.

"That's a great testament not only to the back five but also the midfield lads who are putting one hell of a shift in." Lambert was particularly delighted with the performance of Cissokho, whose signing raised plenty of eyebrows .

"Aly was that good they had to put their own Sissoko on the right side to try and stop him because he was that powerful.

Bridge too far for Lockmen

Bridgnorth 5 Willenhall 1

WILLENHALL suffered a 5-1 defeat to an impressive Bridgnorth side in the West Midlands Premier Division.

The Reds took an eighth minute lead when a ball from Matt Dorgan found Tony Clift on the right, he cut inside and launched a fierce drive high and wide of home keeper Chris Crook.

The Blues seized control in the second half and took the lead through skipper Jason Pike in 64 minutes, before three goals in eight minutes from Karl Griffiths, Ryan Guryn and Coney completed the scoring.

This Saturday Willenhall play Malvern Town.

League's new boys grab their first scalp

Rushall 2 Ramsbottom 4

NEWLY-PROMOTED Ramsbottom United picked up their maiden win in the Evo-Stik Premier Division from their first ever visit to Dales Lane.

The visitors took a fourth-minute lead when Phil Dean rounded off an excellent move with a close-range tap-in.

On 28 minutes the visitors doubled their lead when they were gifted a goal.

Chris Westwood's back pass to goalkeeper Chris Gemmell was short, but the keeper missed his kick to allow Jordan Hulme to run the ball into an empty net.

Three minutes before the break the home side were back in it when Josh Craddock headed home a Tony Capaldi cross.

Two goals in the first eight minutes of the second half put the visitors firmly in the driving seat.

On 52 minutes Gemmell brought down Jon Robinson in the penalty area and Robinson picked himself up to easily convert the spot-kick and a minute later Phil Dean finished off a neat move from close range.

Pics pulled a goal back seven minutes from time, when Craddock fired home his second but it was too little too late as Rams to the points.

Attendance: 161.

Wood come away with a draw at Swifts

Stourport Swifts 1 Walsall Wood 1

Football

THROUGH supersub Dave Carns Wood went ahead with 17 minutes to go, however the lead only lasted six minutes with Swifts' skipper Gary Walker capitalising on rare indecision in the Wood defence to fire home the equaliser.

Defences were on top for the first 20 minutes apart from a central free kick for Swifts from 20 yards that ricochetted off the Wood wall to Michael McGrath, his low drive pushed away by keeper Mario Kisiel.

A long clearance fell into the path of McGrath to hit first time, his shot deflecting off a Wood defender for a corner. Three minutes later Ashley Parsons-Smith played a neat one-two wide right with Alex Cowley before racing into the box, his low cross put behind by Anthony Juxon to deny Lewis Pountney.

Joey Butlin intercepted a ball on halfway and fed Corey Currithers wide left, he cut inside, went through two tackles only to hit a low drive wide.

Then McGrath released Lewis Pountney into the left of the box, Juxon saving Wood with a superbly timed tackle.

A Kisiel goal kick a minute later was headed on by Drew Aiton, the ball picking up pace off the wet surface to run away from Daniel Holgate on the left of the box.

The last goalmouth action of the half came on 41 minutes, Parsons-Smith crossing from wide right, the ball half cleared to McGrath on the edge of the box, his first time effort just wide.

A minute into the second half, Evans cut inside from wide right and was brought down just outside the D, Butlin firing the free kick wide of the left hand post. On 73 minutes Luke Adams raced out of defence before feeding Aiton wide left, his neat ball inside was collected at pace by Dave Carns, who made an incisive run across the box before drilling a low drive into the bottom left hand corner to open the scoring.

The reply was almost instantaneous.Gary Walker fired home the equaliser from just inside the box .

It's FA Cup action for Wood next when they take on Stafford Rangers at Oak Park on Saturday.

FORDE FLOPS JUST FEET FROM GOAL

Leyton Orient 0 Walsall 0

HOPEFULLY, years from now, Anthony Forde will be able to look back and laugh.

Sadly, right now, his miss from two yards out was the most unforgettable moment of what was in the entertainment stakes a largely forgettable match.

Football

The most frustrating thing for the 20-year-old winger will surely be the way his own good work led to his downfall.

Had he reacted slower to goalkeeper Adam Legzdins heavy touch, or ignored it altogether, we would be reflecting on a decent full debut.

Instead we are left discussing a miss which will likely feature on numerous blooper DVDs in the coming years.

Pilloried

For Walsall, a team so frequently pilloried for an inability to hit the target when it counts, it seemed almost sarcastic.

And yet really it shouldn't detract from what was largely a positive performance.

It was certainly a significant improvement on Tuesday night's showing against Yeovil. Taken as a whole, the first four games would suggest nights like that will be the exception rather than the rule this term.

The Saddlers were at least the equal of an Orient side who were able to boast in their line-up two players – in Darius Henderson and Jobi McAnuff – snared from Championship outfits over the summer. What is still missing, of course, are the goals and a first win but for now Smith deserves the benefit of the doubt.

This is still very much a team getting to know each other and missing several key players who should improve it significantly. Positives were there in the performances of Paul Downing, who kept the bustling Henderson largely in check. Alongside him, veteran Dean Holden is fulfilling his promise .

Then there is Liam Kinsella, who has now completed the most impressive trio of performances from a first year professional in many a year. Up front there was no goal for Tom Bradshaw but his latest tireless display was worthy of note and praise.

Smith would appear to have one-half of an impressive strike duo in the 21-year-old and if he can capture the missing piece in the coming week, the Saddlers will be well set. The manager will also have taken heart in seeing Romaine Sawyers back to something like his old self. .

Forget the failure, Forde told

WALSALL winger Anthony Forde was has been told to forget his Leyton Orient horror miss.

The 20-year-old squandered a great chance to claim three points for the Saddlers on his full debut at Brisbane Road on Saturday.

But he somehow back-heeled wide of an open goal from just two yards out, having done much of the hard work by charging down home keeper Adam Legzdins' clearance.

Saddlers keeper Richard O'Donnell believes the former Wolves man should simply forget the incident and take the positives after his first start in a Walsall shirt.

"He (Forde) has done really well closing it down and it is just unfortunate it did not fall for him the second time," said O'Donnell.

"We knew we wanted to close the keeper down, so he has taken that on board. He has not got his rewards in the end – but he has done the right thing and was unlucky.

"With something like that you just say 'forget it' and move on."

Forde's miss was the Saddlers' best chance of a goal.

Kinsella displays impress keeper

RICHARD O'DONNELL says Liam Kinsella has had the best start to a professional career of anyone he's ever seen.

The keeper believes the 18-year-old has been 'unbelievable' in his first three games for the Saddlers.

Kinsella, a first-year professional, has impressed against Bradford and Yeovil.
